

Chris Sieklucki is the Operations Manager at the Northwest Regional Airport Authority, also known as Cherry Capital Airport (TVC), located in Traverse City Michigan. Chris has worn a few hats since he started his career in airports roughly 18 years ago. Chris cut his teeth as an Operations Technician on the midnight shift at the Kalamazoo/Battle Creek International Airport back in 2008. Chris also worked as the Airfield Technician and eventually took the role as Assistant Director-Operations and Maintenance before moving on from Kalamazoo. In 2016 Chris assumed the role of Assistant Airport Manager of the MBS International Airport. In August of 2018 Chris was delighted when joining Team TVC where he now works managing the day-to-day of both the Operations and Maintenance departments as the airport's Operations Manager. As for extracurricular activities, Chris is a Commercial Multi-Engine Instrument Pilot. Chris enjoyed his time as a board member of the Michigan Association of Airport Executives, elected President in 2020. Additionally, Chris has been recently appointed to an ACRP panel regarding winter operations and very much enjoys coaching football at Elk Rapids Middle School where he resides.
